Vandals have damaged a mural designed by a Polish artist to promote cohesion in Harlow just hours after it was unveiled.

Jola Kudela's work on St Paul's Church, created after Pole Arek Jozwik died after being attacked in The Stow, was ripped overnight on Saturday (March 18).

Her project We Are All The Same, which features photographs of residents, was erected to tie in with Meet The Neighbours, a Polish culture festival held on Saturday.

The artist said: "A few hours after the event finished someone tried to pull it out and a few pieces came off.

Message

"The damage is not huge but it is the fact that someone would respond like that to the message, that is troubling.

"It is fragile. It can be destroyed very easily, you can just take it off but the glue was quite strong.

"A photograph of a little girl has been ripped.

"Someone has found the pieces. You can stick it back together."

A picture of a little girl was the piece that was mostly damaged, while a picture of a man was ripped too.

It was one of several pieces to hang on the wall of St Paul's.

A sister mural hangs on Harlow Playhouse but was not damaged.

Ms Kudela said she is not looking to repair the mural and that the rip is itself a freedom of expression.

She added: "I am not surprised because it happens but I thought they would respect the message of let's try to do something together to try to pave over the cracks."

"It's sad for me."

"The council asked me what they could do about it and I said I would leave it like it is."

"It is like a dialogue with society that you put out a message and they have the right to answer."

"Everyone has their rights to thought, that's my opinion."

LET’S CELEBRATE
HAPPY BIRTHDAY HARLOW: HERTS & ESSEX COMMUNITY FARM, FOLD

Beautiful: Celebrate Mother’s Day at Lee Valley Park...
Tributes to teacher and opera company stalwart

Much-loved Bob Mallison made music a big part of his life

By William Mata

BOB Mallison, a much loved school teacher and respected amateur singer, has died at the age of 82.

The grandfather, who lived in Kingsmoor Road, Harlow, was well known for his opera performances at Harlow Playhouse as well as teaching PE and French at Epping St John’s for many years.

He died on Friday, March 10 after losing his battle with dementia with Lewy bodies and his daughter Liz Flight has paid tribute to the popular character.

The 55-year-old, who lives in Hitchin, said: “He was very active in Harlow Opera Company which he joined in 1966.

He rose up and became one of the stars.

“He always played the tenor lead. He was really involved. At Harlow Playhouse they put on spectacular productions; it meant a huge amount to him.

“He did a lot as a teacher to nurture talents. He taught PE and French but music was such a big part of his life.

Teaching

“He spent a lot of his own time teaching the kids.”

London-born Mr Mallison had been very ill with the degenerative disease for three and a half years.

He leaves behind Margaret, better known as Paddy, his wife of 59 years.

The pair moved to the town when Mrs Mallison found work at STC labs. They had lived in Harlow for more than 50 years, previously at an address in Westfied.

As well as Liz, the couple had another daughter Becky, as well as son Mark.

Their four grandchildren are James, Charlotte, Holly and Tabitha.

Mr Mallison will be buried on Tuesday, April 4 in Herongate Wood in Brentwood.

Anyone is welcome but those interested are asked to contact the family first.

Mrs Flight continued: “After he had done the opera he did a series of shows at Harlow Playhouse where they sang old-time songs.

“He was a cockney and was proud of his roots.”

Make it a special Mother’s Day by signing up for Race for Life

CANCER Research UK is calling on women to run the 5km or 10km Race for Life fundraiser in Harlow Town Park.

Ahead of Mother’s Day the charity is appealing for mums and daughters to take part in the event at 11am on Sunday, May 14.

Courtney Culverhouse, Cancer Research UK’s Harlow event manager, said: “We are urging mums and daughters in Harlow to make this Mother’s Day extra special by signing up to Race for Life.

“It’s the perfect opportunity to spend quality time together, create precious memories and join like-minded women determined to beat cancer sooner.”

Ms Culverhouse added: “We’re calling on daughters in Harlow to give an extra special gift this Mother’s Day and pledge to take part in Race for Life with their mum.

“By coming together, they can be part of a formidable force of women who are all united in their determination to beat cancer. We’ve no doubt that they’re up to the challenge.”

To enter Race for Life, visit raceforlife.org or call 0300 123 0770.

Teen stabbed while sitting on a bench

A TEENAGER has been stabbed while sitting on a bench in Harlow.

Police are appealing for witnesses following the stabbing in Church Langley Way at about 10.15pm on Tuesday, March 2.

A 17-year-old from Chelmsford was sitting on a bench when he was approached by two men, who pulled out a knife and assaulted him before cycling off.

The victim was taken to hospital with three cuts to his wrist.

Anyone with information should call Harlow CID on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.
Vandalism to Polish artist’s mural ‘is no reflection of town’

By William Mata

VANDALISM to a Polish artist’s mural ‘does not reflect the way Harlow feels’ towards foreigners, according to international residents.

On Friday, the night before bridge-building culture festival Meet the Neighbours, Jola Kudela’s photographic work on St Paul’s Church in Harlow was found to have been torn.

The mural symbolises an effort to celebrate international cultures in Harlow seven months after the death of Polish national Arkadiusz Jozwik and the artist was saddened by the vandalism.

Ms Kudela said: "The damage is not huge but it is the fact that someone would respond like that to the message. I am not surprised because it happens but I thought they would respect the message of 'let’s try to do something together to try to pave over the cracks'."

Polish Harlow resident Jack Gora, is manager of international food shop U POLAKA in The Stow, Harlow, the shopping hatch where Mr Jozwik was attacked last August. He said: “Nothing has changed. Some people have said it is quieter but I have not seen any change and there has been no loss in trade.”

Lithuanian retailer Rita Primsantienė, deputy manager of Sala European Food in The Rows, Harlow, said: “International residents are made to feel welcome.

“We left London because it was crowded and bought a house here ten years ago. I am happy to live in Harlow.”

An English trader in The Stow, who did not wish to be named, added: “We have a lot of Polish and Lithuanian (coming in) and they are all really nice.”

Ms Kudela’s work We Are All in the Same Boat is featured on different parts of St Paul’s and also on Harlow Playhouse. It features many Harlow residents to spread a message of equality.

The mural still stands but was noticeably torn in several places.

Meet the Neighbours, part of Essex Book Festival, featured talks from several Polish authors and was a successful event despite the vandalism, according to town leaders.

Robert Halfon, town MP, said: “It’s really frustrating that mindless vandals would want to try to destroy something which was created to bring people together and shows Harlow at its best. These are the actions of a minority though, and the important thing is that the majority were able to celebrate Harlow as a cultural town.”

Harlow Council member Ian

UPSET: The creator of the work, Polish artist Jola Kudela

DAMAGE: Work created in effort to improve community relations after killing is torn, leaving community leaders reeling
DAMAGE: One of the rips in the mural

DIVERSITY: The event was not overshadowed by the vandalism, according to chaplain Robert Findlay, pictured with MP Robert Halfon, Witssila Rvazho and ambassador Arkady Rzegocki

Beckett said: “The vandalism in Harlow town centre of the fantastic mural by street artist Jola Kudela in no way reflects how Harlow people feel about Polish residents or visitors to the town. “What the vandalism does show is a blatant disregard for the creative, community and civic efforts to celebrate the cultural diversity within our town that has been a strong and vibrant feature for the last 70 years.”

Robert Findlay, town chaplain who is based at St Paul’s Church, said: “It did not impact it at all, it is about celebrating the diversity of Harlow.

Overshadow
“It did not overshadow the event. The story last year (about Mr Jozwik) took legs and it put Harlow in a bad light.”

Ros Green, director of Essex Book Festival, said: “It was not substantial damage and these things do happen. “We were just delighted with the day and from our point of view it was a positive experience. “We do not want to focus on one tiny element of it. There was slight damage the night before, I imagine it was young kids running around and they were trying to slip their fingers under it. “It is a shame. It is such a positive event. I think the focus should be on how wonderful it was.”
IF you are getting fed-up with lorries overtaking each other on the motorway, the situation could soon improve.

Work to restrict lorries from overtaking during the daytime on uphill sections of the M11 started on Monday, March 20.

The work, which will include installing road signs along a section of the road in both directions between junctions 8 for Bishop’s Stortford and Stansted Airport and 9 for the A11, should improve journey times.

To minimise disruption, the work will be carried out overnight between 10pm and 6am Monday to Friday only, with the hard shoulder and lane one closed to keep drivers and road workers safe. It is planned for completion by the end of March.

CARRIAGeway

Once the signs are in place, vehicles weighing more than 7.5 tonnes and travelling through the sections of the M11 where signage is displayed will not be allowed to drive in lane two of the two-lane carriageway between 7am and 7pm.

Highways England project manager Steve Cox said: “We are committed to getting the best use out of the road network, making journeys more reliable and improve safety.

“Our research, based on a trial we carried out between April 2010 and September 2011, has shown us that implementing lorry overtaking restrictions on uphill sections of the M11 between junctions 8 and 9 during the daytime would be beneficial to road users, reducing congestion and improving journey times.”

‘Distracted’ lorry driver smashes into bollards

By Charlotte Page

A DRIVER has been reported for careless driving after his lorry collided with a series of concrete bollards when he became ‘distracted by his sat-nav’.

The crash occurred on the Riverway Industrial Estate in Harlow at 10.50am on Friday.

Sawbridgeworth Fire Station sent one engine to the scene as did officers from Essex Police at 11.23am.

Spill

Firefighters attended the incident to ensure that the area was safe following both an oil and diesel spill when the heavy goods vehicle mounted the pavement.

Sergeant Colin Shead of Essex Police’s roads policing unit said: “A driver was operating his sat-nav while he was driving and not paying attention to his driving.

“The lorry has been reported for the offence of careless driving by PC Colbert at Chigwell Traffic.”

Sgt Shead stressed how Sat Navs can be a distraction whilst behind the wheel.

The lorry had extensive damage, however the driver is not believed to have been injured in the incident.

COLLISION: The crash occurred on the Riverway Industrial Estate

MOUNTED: The lorry went up onto the pavement

DISTRACTED: The driver was said to be looking at his sat-nav whilst he was driving.

FRUSTRATING: Lorries overtake each other on a dual carriageway

The driver has been reported for the offence of careless driving by PC Colbert at Chigwell Traffic.”
A FIRE broke out at Zenz Oriental Restaurant, in Old Harlow, last Friday (March 17).

Firefighters were called to the takeaway restaurant in Station Road at 10.19am after an electrical appliance overheated in the kitchen on the first floor of the building.

Darren Martin, station officer at Harlow Central Fire Station, said: “We were called to Zenz Oriental by the owner after reports of smoke coming from the kitchen.

“The owner was quick-thinking and shut the doors and got everyone out. It was very small with a few flames.”

Investigation

An investigation has been completed, with officers reporting the fire started due to a plate-warming cupboard being left on.

The floor beneath the cupboard then caught alight and smouldered overnight.

Station Officer Martin said: “To extinguish the fire it was necessary for us to cut away the flooring on the first floor, which has left the restaurant ceiling and the kitchen floor damaged.”

In addition, the building has also suffered slight water and smoke damage.

Two fire crews dispatched from Harlow had the fire extinguished by 11am and no one was injured.

A female resident, 25, who lives next to the restaurant, said: “My mum had said that she’d seen blue lights. I looked out the window to see the fire brigade and there was smoke coming from the side of the building.”

Another witness, Jacqueline Gilman, said: “I was having my nails done and someone came in and said, ‘have you seen that Zenz is on fire?’”

Tyler Durkin, from estate agents The Howick and Brooker Partnership, said: “I saw the truck go past and walked out of the office and saw it was parked right outside Zenz. But to be honest I didn’t see any flames or smoke and we are very close to it, but we haven’t smelt anything.”

A spokesman for Essex County Fire and Rescue Service said that they wanted to stress the importance of testing fire alarms to the public.
HARLOW is turning 70 in 2017 and to celebrate the Harlow Star is asking residents to share their favourite things about the town.

Each week we will share a few thoughts from residents about what makes Harlow great. Here are entries 20 to 22...

■ 20. Dani De’ath, community fundraising lead, St Clare Hospice
Favourite thing about Harlow: Fundraising spirit
“MY favourite thing about Harlow is the incredible community spirit and generosity towards St Clare.

I am so lucky, as a community fundraiser, to get to meet so many inspirational and caring people from all across Harlow, who go the extra mile to support their local hospice.

From holding afternoon tea charity events and grand dinner-dances, to volunteering their time week after week at the hospice, in our Harlow shop, and at events like Midnight Walk.

“I wish Harlow a very happy 70th birthday and thank you, from the bottom of our hearts, for all you do for St Clare.”

■ 21. Stuart Harbutt, Harlow resident
Favourite thing about Harlow: Open spaces
“I’VE lived in Harlow all my life and currently live in The Stow area. Although Harlow gets a bad press sometimes, I feel it’s a good town with open spaces.”

■ 22. Kim Osborn, of Rushes Mead, Harlow
Favourite thing about Harlow: Parndon Wood Nature Reserve
“MY family and I live in Rushes Mead and regularly use Parndon Wood Nature Reserve to stretch our legs and get some fresh air.

“It’s our favourite place in Harlow because it’s an easily accessible well-kept nature trail with friendly staff and lots of wildlife to look out for.

“We’ve seen bats, foxes, snakes, deer, many types of birds, bees and lots of insects. Hopefully one day, if we’re really lucky, we’ll spot a bear!”

Get involved: To participate in a future edition email william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk or write to Harlow Star, Stag House, Old London Road, Hertford SG13 7LA.

A HARLOW police officer has been reunited with an injured pony he helped to rescue.

Last Wednesday PC Josh Haase visited Redwings Ada Cole Rescue Centre in Epping Road, Nazeing, where he petted the foal who has been renamed Josh.

The pony, who had previously been called Elvis, was found near a skate park in First Avenue, Harlow, earlier this year and the PC helped him to receive treatment.

PC Haase said: “It was rescued after being found severely mistreated. It was clear the fact it had been in a skate park overnight.

“It had had so much stuff thrown at it, it was completely d i s h eve l l e d . We kept it down on First Avenue throughout the course of the day whereby Ada Cole were contacted.”

He added: “It’s clear the pony had lost the motivation that it did have. He had a slight operation a few weeks ago in Norfolk.

“Now that he is back we have the opportunity to see him. Hopefully he will be in a better state than he was before. He looks very different.

“It is fantastic to see Josh has made a full recovery and is back to his normal self. He is springing around and is enjoying his life.”

Horse and pony tethering is a talking point in Harlow and last month a resident started a petition to help clamp down on the issue.

A Redwings spokeswoman said:

“Redwings is the largest sanctuary. We are home to 1,500 horses, ponies and donkeys.

“We first came into contact with Josh shortly after his rescue and we was in a very, very poorly state.

“He was given emergency veterinary treatment. One of the reasons Josh may have been abandoned is because of his low value as a male foal but also because of his obvious health issues.”

Robber threatens teenager with knife

DETECTIVES are appealing for witnesses after a teenage woman was threatened with a knife in a Harlow robbery.

The 18-year-old was walking on a cycle path in Tripton Road, at about 1.45pm on Friday when she was approached by a man holding a knife. He demanded money, which the woman handed over. He then ran off into a nearby wooded area.

The victim was left shaken but unhurt.

She described the suspect as being white, aged about 40, of stocky build, and about 5ft 6in to 5ft 7in.

He is believed to have curly short light-brown hair with a small bald patch on the crown and a long bushy beard.

He was said to be wearing black gloves that had the ends of both thumbs cut off, a khaki green jacket with a rip in the back and black steel-toe-capped style boots.

Witnesses or anyone with any information is encouraged to call DC James Smith at Harlow CID on 101.

Alternatively, people can call independent crime-fighting charity Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

MARATHON charity ride on exercise bikes by teachers

School staff cycle the equivalent of London to Paris for good cause

By William Mata

TEACHERS at a Harlow school cycled the equivalent of London to Paris in a combined 24-hour ride on exercise bikes.

Several Burnt Mill Academy staff started at 8am on Friday and had clocked up 289 miles by 1.30am on Saturday in a fundraiser for homeless charity Streets2Homes.

But even after they reached their target, the group agreed to continue riding the full 24 hours.

Daniel Bolt, the PE teacher who organised the ride, said: “I’m really proud of the team. We completed the challenge a lot sooner than we thought we would.

“Next time we’ll have to set a further distance. We have a few other challenges in the planning stages for later in the year as well.”

“Thank you to all who have been supporting us on social media and through donations.”

Shifts were split throughout the day and night with each rider cycling for an hour at a time.

As the end of the 24-hour approached staff and students had started to arrive for their Saturday school sessions and a school trip.

Difficult

They gathered to count down to the end of the ride.

Streets2Homes is service based in Wych Elm, Harlow, which helps the homeless make a difficult first step into accommodation.

At the time of going to press Mr Bolt had raised £330 for the charity.

Anyone wishing to donate can do so via www.justgiving.com/crowdfunding/Bolt.

Bolt takes part in the 24-hour cycle ride.

Dealers are jailed for having haul of drugs

TWO drug dealers caught with a haul of cocaine and heroin in their vehicle have been jailed for a combined total of more than six years.

Chelmsford Crown Court heard how officers from Essex Police received a report that drug users had gathered and a suspected deal was about to take place in the Town Park area of Harlow on October 4 last year.

The officers went to the area and saw a group of what was believed to be drug users approaching a vehicle, the driver of the car, 26-year-old Amir Mostofi, panicked, dropped an object in his lap and attempted to drive the vehicle away while passenger, 20-year-old Glen Elamo, tried to escape on foot.

They were stopped by the officers and a search of the vehicle found wraps and rocks of heroin and cocaine as well as mobile phones and more than £200.

Admitted

The pair were arrested and charged with one count of possession of a Class A drug with intent to supply.

Elamo, of Station Road, East London, and Mostofi, of Downing Court, North London, admitted the charges.

Elamo was jailed for three years and six months while Mostofi was handed a three-year sentence.

Following the sentencing, PC Tom Bennett of the West Operation Raptor team said: “It was clear that Elamo and Mostofi were actively dealing drugs in the Harlow area but their efforts to escape the West Operation Raptor team were in vain.

“The lengthy sentences reflect the seriousness with which both Essex Police and the wider criminal justice system view those who are plying drugs on our streets.

“We hope this sentence also sends out a clear message to the community that we act on all information received in relation to drug dealing and we will not tolerate this crime on the streets of our county.”

HARLOW residents and fans of popular Netflix show The Crown will soon see familiar scenes as season two of the drama continues.

The show’s cast and crew were in Harlow last Wednesday (March 15), filming in well-known spots in the town in the morning and in the afternoon.

■ SENT TO PRISON
TOBY JAMES WEST, 36, of Sheppards, Harlow was committed to prison for 14 days and ordered to pay £50 costs to the Crown Prosecution Service for failing, without reasonable excuse, to comply with the supervision requirements imposed following release from a period of imprisonment in that he failed to attend an appointment in October, and another in November.

SAM KENNETH PETER EGGLEN, 37, of no fixed abode was committed to prison for three months for stealing Yankee Candles, to the value of £50, belonging to Boots the Chemist in Broad Walk, Harlow. He was then committed to prison for one month consecutive and ordered to pay £50 compensation for stealing perfume gift sets, to the value of £50, belonging to Boots in Broad Walk, Harlow. He was also committed to prison for three months consecutive for stealing fragrance gift sets, to the value of £126.50, belonging to Boots in Broad Walk, Harlow. He was then committed to prison for another three months consecutive for stealing more fragrance gift sets, to the value of £117, belonging to Boots. He was committed to prison for three months consecutive for again stealing gift fragrance sets, to the value of £95, belonging to Boots. He was again committed to prison for three months consecutive for stealing more fragrance gift sets, to the value of £112, belonging to Boots. He was also committed to prison for another three months consecutive for stealing more fragrance gift sets, to the value of £198, belonging to Boots in Broad Walk, Harlow. He was then committed to prison for another three months consecutive for stealing more Yankee Candles, to the value of £35.96, belonging to Boots in Broad Walk, Harlow. He was then committed to prison for another three months consecutive for stealing more fragrance gift sets, to the value of £110, belonging to Boots. He was then committed to prison for another three months consecutive for stealing more fragrance gift sets, to the value of £85, belonging to Boots. He was then committed to prison for three months consecutive for original offences in respect of which a community order was made in September 2016 for five shoplifting offences and one failure to surrender to custody having been released on bail. Number of trust staff reporting errors rises

THREE in ten staff at Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow have witnessed incidents that could have caused harm to a patient in just one month.

Meanwhile a fifth of staff at the hospital, 20.9 per cent, said they had seen errors, near misses or incidents that could have put staff at risk.

Highest

This was also one of the highest rates in England and up from 15.4 per cent in 2015.

Last month Princess Alexandra Hospital chief executive Phil Morley announced he would step down in April, leaving the hospital in special measures.

A spokeswoman for the Princess Alexandra Hospital Trust said: “The Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust has an open and honest safety culture.

The trust board actively encourages staff to report clinical and non-clinical incidents as well as reporting potential incidents."

Barrymore is set for TV comeback with sitcom

ENTERTAINER Michael Barrymore is set to make a TV comeback with a new sitcom.

The former Strike It Lucky host has been off screen since 2001, when the body of Stewart Lubbock was found in the swimming pool of his Roydon mansion.

The discovery and Barrymore’s consequent arrest and release without charge, put the brakes on his career and he has barely featured on TV since the incident.

The 64-year-old announced his return on Twitter, telling his 35,000 followers that if they enjoyed his 2000 comedy Bob Martin, “this will be right up your street”.

He tweeted: “Brilliant second day filming with Tom Brooke. Never mentioned ‘Game Of Thrones’ once... class act, (sic) a really nice guy I’m knackered!

Ha X.”

Co-star Tom Brooke played Lothar Frey, the son of David Bradley’s murderous Walder in the HBO phenomenon.

Stewart Lubbock’s death has never been formally solved, but father Terry, who now lives in a Harlow care home, is bidding to reopen the inquest into his son’s death.

Barrymore was not charged in connection with the incident and is currently suing Essex Police for wrongful arrest, seeking damages of around £2.5 million.

Council agrees plans to build 16,100 homes

Calls for leader to resign after decision

THOUSANDS of homes could now be built in Harlow’s west and south after councillors passed a disputed agreement.

Labour councillor Danny Purton, portfolio holder for environment, faced calls to resign from Conservative opponents, as he put forward a proposal similar to one contested last August.

Colleagues

Party colleagues voted through his motion, as part of a memorandum of understanding (MOU) for housing need between Harlow, East Herts, Epping and Utllesford councils, by 18 votes to 13.

At the special council meeting on Thursday, March 16, the council accepted a responsibility to build 16,100 by 2033.

Of these 5,900 must be objectively assessed housing need dwellings. All proposals are subject to planning permission and could change.

This is part of an agreement to build 31,100 across the three council regions.

All members agreed there is a need for housing in the town but Mr Purton faced a backlash to his conditional support for backing building in the west and south of the town.

This follows a previous meeting on August 31 where councillors changed the wording of their agreement to a more reserved approach.

The councillor also refused claims a road would be built through Harlow Town Park and admitted a previous document which made such a suggestion was a ‘mistake’.

During the meeting shadow council leader Andrew Johnson said he was shocked to see a letter written to Epping councillor John Philip about building in the south and west.

Conservative councillor Joel Charles added: “We need new housing but I would have expected the council to stand up for Harlow.

“This administration does not want to consult residents.”

Calls for leader to resign after decision

“We had to respond and we took legal advice. We had to go on what our previous policy was and that is the council’s current position.”

Mr Purton said he was satisfied this concern had been addressed and was able to proceed.

Harlow Council is now preparing its own local plan and consultations are expected to begin in the summer to avoid a clash with local elections.

Are we getting good value?

I WRITE with reference to your report in the Harlow Star (New contract is chance for our town to shine, March 9).

Was this not the opportunity that we were promised in 2007 when Kier was apparently given the contract to manage Harlow, but did not?

The report states: “the change in contract means that Harlow Council can keep any profits for future investment.”

Who devised a contract to give public money away to a private company such as Kier?

How much public money has been given away to Kier since the inception of Kier Harlow?

Why was it deemed necessary to change from the Direct Labour Organisation (DLO) to Kier Harlow and give away public money, which was not the case under the DLO?

What significant difference is there between the DLO and HTS? Why are we talking about ‘profits’ and not ‘surplus’, is the money accrued by Harlow Council above which taxes are collected? This is how councils were judged and monitored to determine whether local taxes were correct, set too high or set too low. ‘Profit’ takes the focus from the people and puts it on the benefits for the corporate body that is Harlow Council.

This is not serving the people of Harlow.

The people of Harlow do not need gimmicks but proper management, with disciplines in place that will ensure that the people of Harlow are not just treated fairly and get value for their money but are also seen to be treated fairly and to get value for their money.

It is a concern that the weakness of the Kier Harlow contract from the former operations director for Kier Harlow is now to be turned into a positive for starting the HTS.

It was not the decision of Mr Phillips to change from the DLO to Kier Harlow, but whose decision was it and how was it perceived at the time that giving away public money could possibly be conceived by anyone as being a benefit to the people of Harlow. Did we have a local referendum on the change to Kier Harlow?

In a true democracy we need real consultation and answers, not directives.

Pauras Kolah
Address supplied

Will things be different now?

I READ from your paper that HTS has taken over the role from Kier for the upkeep of the town’s homes and green spaces (New contract is chance for our town to shine, March 9).

Also, Mr Phillips who was at Kier and is now head of HTS, claims Harlow will be better off under his new HTS group.

Does he admit he failed Harlow when he was at Kier? I await to see if things will change as the same management that ran Kier group have been transferred to the HTS group?

Brian Hood
Harlow

Where is the money going?

THIS year is the 70th anniversary of Parliament passing the New Towns Act, it’s a sad reflection on Harlow District Council that it is no longer part of the community of Harlow and has abandoned the people and their communities.

For many years the reality of what the people are enduring is enshrined on the pages of our free newspaper the Harlow Star and is now brought into sharp focus by the spring 2017 edition of Harlow District Council’s own publication Harlow Times.

In Harlow Times the Leader of Harlow Council trumpets: ‘I am proud that once again the council budgets for 2017/18 will see no services closed or cut’, so why has he increased council tax?

What’s the extra money needed for? It can only be for improving the lot of Harlow Council? Because we certainly will feel no benefit.

If no services have been cut why has there been money cut from the decent modern homes programme again?

Council leader Jon Clempner states that the council’s new Direct Labour Organisation HTS Ltd will run a range of well provided services that will give us value for money.

How can this be?

It was the council that negotiated the original KierHarlow JVC, supposedly to improve services and save money under this contract the council would re-employ not just HTS Ltd to re-employ not just bad why has the Council allowed to keep the council that it is no longer part of the community of Harlow.

Why once the extension was granted and the council was back in control did the services deteriorate?

If the KierHarlow JVC was so bad why has the Council allowed HTS Ltd to re-employ not just bad why did the council grant an extension to the JVC contract?

Why once the extension was granted and the council was back in control did the services deteriorate?

If KierHarlow is so bad, why has the council not paid for property in the council report to its tenants does it state ‘Continue to provide a good service of repair and maintenance’?

The council believes it can raise income by selling HTS Ltd’s services to other local authorities and service providers.

This is exactly what the old DLO told us would happen when they went and built the white elephant that is the Mead Park depot.

Unfortunately once potential users see the state of our town and our housing stock, few took up that offer and we are all left paying the cost of this council decision to this day. The council will never learn while we have no option but to pay up regardless of their excesses.

Cllr Wilkinson the portfolio holder for housing just regurgitates the same out of date council information that came from the previous portfolio holder.

He states he will: ‘Tackle the growing need for supported housing.

But was it not the council that turned sheltered housing units over to general use? Reducing the supported housing stock.

Help to improve choices for those in housing need.

Existing and potential tenant’s representatives have long campaigned for the highly secret ‘Choice Based Letting’

CRIME RATES
Praise for good policing report

MY congratulations go out to the Chief Constable and all his staff, particular those officers and police staff who are on the front line of tackling crime in Essex, for the recent EMIC report which grades them as ‘good’ for police effectiveness, efficiency and legitimacy.

As I said during my campaign to be Essex Police and Crime Commissioner last year, the officers and staff of Essex Police force work extremely hard under ever difficult circumstances and they deserve the highest praise for this.

However, to many people across Essex this recent report will seem like empty words. Having continued to campaign across Harlow, following last year’s election, I know how concerned that people are about the cuts in front line police officers across the county.

People feel afraid and recognise that it’s the lack of the police in our communities that are to blame for this.

Once again I thank the police officers and staff, as well as Stephen Kavanagh, for their dedication to their duty. However, we cannot pretend that this report means ‘everything is okay’ and that Essex Police Officers and staff, who are over worked and undervalued, do not need extra funds and extra support.

BREXIT
Facts should still matter

IN Roy Beale’s rather hysterical letter of March 9 (Questions for the Remainers) he makes some valid points, but like so many Brexiteers his loathing for the EU blickers him from some basic facts.

Now I realise that in this new Trumpsonian world facts no longer matter but let’s list a few anyway.

Mr Beale says that living under the EU is tantamount to living under fascism.

A ludicrous statement when you consider that UKIP have absorbed some of the worse elements from the National Front and the English Defence League.

For right parties are riding high in the polls in both Holland and France at the moment and are failing our town, these are contracts with developers made by our council with private companies that seem so despised by the council leader when he talks of ‘our money going into a private company!’

Our elected councillors have and are failing our town, these politicians seem only interested in getting and staying in power so they can carry out the dictates of their London based central offices, we must take back our town and have local people running it to suit our needs.

Remember the old rallying cry of ‘Local polices for Local people. No taxation without representation.’

Looking like they are still relevant in 2017, a bit sad really that after 70 years Harlow councillors have turned their backs on the people and their needs, only working for their political parties gain.

The council is giving away our land to developers that already hold a land bank that only benefits their shareholders note: our money going into what Cllr Clempner calls a private company?

Ridley Scott’s seminal 1979 sci-fi horror Alien proved that, in space, everyone can hear you scream. A new group of astronauts come face to face with a terrifying extra-terrestrial threat in Daniel Espinosa’s otherworldly thriller. Scientist Hugh Derry (Ariyon Bakare) leads the six-strong international team of the Mars Pilgrim 7 Mission, which travels to the red planet in search of proof of life. They discover a single-celled lifeform and transport the organism — affectionately christened Calvin — back to space station for further analysis. The rest of the crew, including Dr David Jordan (Jake Gyllenhaal), Rory Adams (Ryan Reynolds), Sho Kendo (Hiroyuki Sanada), Katerina Golovkin (Olga Dihovichnaya) and Dr Miranda North (Rebecca Ferguson) from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, react to Calvin’s arrival with varying degrees of delight and trepidation. While Miranda strongly urges caution in case Calvin turns out to be hostile, Hugh excitedly conducts experiments and discovers that feeding Calvin gylcerine causes the organism to multiply at an alarming rate. The crew must find a way to attack the crew, alarm bells sound and the survivors must discover how to exterminate it before the fully grown creature escapes the confines of the space station and heads to Earth to wreak havoc.

POWER RANGERS (12A)

Back in the 1990s, the Mighty Morphin Power Rangers became a staple of children’s TV. More than 20 years later, Dean Israelite directs this fast-paced live action reboot of the multi-billion dollar franchise, which sketches the origins of the titular characters. Diabolical sorceress Rita Repulsa (Elizabeth Banks) was once the Green Ranger, but she has switched allegiances to the dark side and is now searching for the Zeo Crystal flanked by an army of golems and a humungous monster called Gojira. In order to protect the universe from Rita, a new generation of Power Rangers must come forth. Guided by their mentor Zordon (Bryan Cranston) and his robotic assistant Alpha 5 (Bill Hader), the Power Rangers hone their abilities as they prepare for intergalactic war in between finishing their classwork.

THE LOST CITY OF Z (12A) ★★★★★

A sprawling true story of discovery at the turn of the 20th century informs writer-director James Gray’s ambitious journey into the heart of darkness. Based on author David Grann’s non-fiction bestseller, The Lost City Of Z charts the battle between globe-trotting cartographer Percy Fawcett and the scientific establishment, who dismissed indigenous tribes of South America as “savages”. In order to prove the snobbish academics wrong and anchor his place in history, Percy sacrifices relationships with his wife and children, and risks the safety of men in his care as he traces the Rio Verde upriver to its source.

“What kind of fool am I to leave my family for this place?” Percy ponders aloud.

Another Mother’s Son is a captivating and layered drama that raises questions about the sanity of its two main characters. As scripted by Jenny Seagrove, it is a powerhouse performance from Charlie Hunnam as Colonel Percy Fawcett in The Lost City Of Z directed by James Gray and at cinemas from this Friday, March 24.

ANOTHER MOTHER’S SON (12A)

TIMED for release on Mother’s Day weekend, director Christopher Menaul’s well-intentioned drama pays tribute to one unsung hero of the Second World War, who risked her life for a tortured stranger.

While friends turn on each other to curry favour with German invaders, the self-sacrificing matriarch remains stoic in the face of barbarity. As scripted by Jenny Seagrove, great niece of the story’s valiant heroine, Another Mother’s Son is a solid portrait of one of the first recipients of Her Majesty’s British Hero of the Holocaust Awards, who found her voice on 1942 Jersey, the only home territory to fall under Nazi rule. It’s a remarkable page from history recreated on a modest scale by Menaul, who evokes the period with a colour-bleached palette to reflect the gloom of the islanders’ plight.

Jenny Seagrove delivers a measured performance as Louise Gould, who while dishing out rations covertly monitors communications to the Germans through the local post office.

Another Mother’s Son has flecks of humour and tugs heartstrings to the gentle tempo of composer Mario Grigorov’s melancholic score.

Every frame is sincere, but the film is light on tension and character development. There is no doubting the real Louisa Gould’s selflessness and gallantry in a time of unimaginable bloodshed.

However, her remarkable story merits a broader and richer canvas than director Menaul can muster here.

Remarkable war story deserves much more

Charlie Hunnam stars as Colonel Percy Fawcett in The Lost City Of Z directed by James Gray and at cinemas from this Friday, March 24.
The night before the Brit Awards last month, James Arthur tweeted that if anyone had told him a year ago he’d be up for two awards, his response would have been, ‘Fk off.’

And who could blame him? His tumultuous period after winning The X Factor in 2012 was well-documented. He rowed with fellow musicians online, offended the LGBT community and got dropped by Syco, Simon Cowell’s record label. But now the Middlesbrough-born 28-year-old is back. James may not have taken any gongs home from the Brits but says it was an “honour” to be nominated. Before that, his sophomore album, Back From The Edge - released in October, shot to No 1 in the charts, as did lead single Say You Won’t Let Go; he’s back on the books at Syco, and has just started on a UK tour that runs throughout March. It’s mind-blowing,” he mutters softly. “At the Brits two years ago, Jimmy Carr got up and made some crack about me having a meltdown, and I remember watching it, thinking, ‘I am a joke in this country, there’s no coming back from this.’

“Not only was I an X Factor winner that got dropped by Syco, and when that happens you’re never heard of again, but everyone thought I was a clown. I was in those ‘where are they now’ articles and I was like, ‘Fk me, I’m that guy, I’m on the scrapheap.”

James credits his escape from the overcrowded pop scrapheap to a spirit forged through his unbalanced upbringing. “I remember when my parents put me up for foster care and no one gave a Fk about me. I’ve been a survivor for so many years, I’ve always felt like I’ve been trying to survive and always found a way to climb out of the st.”

“That’s just been a theme of my life, it’s the mentality I’ve had to get out of the mine.”

Opening up about that journey – from living in a bedsit, to winning The X Factor, and then watching it all crumble down around him – he says it left him feeling 40 or 30 years old. “It’s like I’ve been around for a long time, and to some people it might seem a bit bizarre me saying, ‘I’m back from the edge, but it is wild when you think about it’.

He says the comeback was fuelled by his on/off girlfriend, professional dancer Jessica Grist. “I pushed everyone away, I ignored everyone. It was just me and Jess, who was so supportive and helped me through a million panic attacks.”

James has suffered from “crippling” panic attacks since first appearing on X Factor, and reveals he has plans to pen an autobiography that will also serve as a self-help book for fans who endure similar issues.

“I’m really passionate about it and I really care,” he explains. “My message to those that do have it (anxiety) is, I know regular things can be so difficult – going to the shop, just going outside – but I’m doing it.

“So if I can travel to France and play a gig in a train station with thousands of people around, then you can get up and go to the shop, buy a pint of milk and you will survive, you will be all right.”

As for returning to Syco – the label reportedly wanted him back after Simon Cowell listened to James’ second record – the singer says he initially wanted to reject their offer, but relented because he’s a ‘sucker for a story’.

“When they asked me to come back, I thought, ‘Well, I’m number one on iTunes already...’ but I’m a massive fan of fairy tales and underdog stories. I’m the one person in history that they came back to, like that that will be written, it’s a bit of an ego thing, I felt like I had to prove myself to them, to let them know how good I am and how much I’ve grown up.”

For James, that sense of maturity means having more diplomacy when dealing with the label’s A&R (Artist and Repertoire) - those responsible for looking after artists and their output.

“I’d never experienced A&R before and it ped me off. I hated A&R. I was like, ‘Don’t tell me how to make music,’ I’ve just won The X Factor, have a bit of faith in me... I’m James Arthur, I’m the best thing that’s ever come from this show. I’m gonna make you a lot of money,” he admits.

“But that’s not how it works. If you’re signed to a major label, you have an A&R, they do have to give opinions and if I was left to structure songs, we’d have eight-minute, obscure left-of-centre tracks.”

He’s pleased that Back From The Edge’s success means he can now perform some different songs live. No doubt his fans felt the same; James’ UK tour sold out in just over 10 minutes.

“We could’ve done arenas this time, but I’m happy because I love to do those packed-out rooms.”

The singer is visiting a number of towns and cities for the 16-date run, including Birmingham and Cardiff, but it’s Glasgow that excites him most, because he can spend time with family there.

“It’s always a good craic, they’re rowdy. Manchester is great too, and London’s always the toughest crowd, everyone’s trying to look cool.”

But why no stop-off in his hometown?

“Newcastle is pretty close, plus we want to do something special for Middlesbrough,” says James.

“We’ve got some cool ideas, maybe we’ll do the Riverside (Stadium, home to Middlesbrough FC) who James supports.”

If his current winning streak continues, he’ll be playing those arena tours in no time...

Are you sitting comfortably? Then I’ll begin. MARION McMULLEN looks at some childhood TV favourites as the Teletubbies celebrate their 20th anniversary

The excited shouts of “Eh-Oh” were first heard 28 years ago as Tinky Winky, Dipsy, La-La and Po made their television debut.

Young children across the country immediately fell in love with the brightly coloured characters with aerials sprouting out of their heads... although some adults were puzzled by Teletubbies talk and complained that it was babyish. The pre-schoolers special was the creation of Ragdoll Production programme makers Anne Wood and Andrew Davenport and the first episode was broadcast by the BBC on March 31, 1997.

Anne once said: “The first presentations I made on the idea were greeted with a kind of stunned silence. Someone in the BBC asked ‘Are these real rabbits?’ When it was first shown to the US they thought it looked like a post-nuclear landscape caught in sunshine”!

Tinky Winky and Co went on to change the face of children’s television and become global superstars being seen by more than a billion children in more than 120 countries across the world. They reached the top of the music charts with their top of the music world.

I’ll begin.

Eric Thompson, father of Oscar-winning actress Emma, narrated the cult series The Magic Roundabout in the 1960s. He provided the voices of all the characters from shaggy, sugar-loving dog Dougal to Brian the snail. The programme started life as a French children’s TV series called Le Manège Enchanté and Dougal was originally named Pollux.

Paddington also remains an enduring favourite. The misadventures of the marmalade-loving bear from Peru were first shown on BBC television in 1976 and were narrated by actor Michael Hordern.

Based on the books by Michael Bond, Paddington has gone on to star in several others TV series as well as his own film in 2014. The books have also been translated into 30 languages.

Jeremy Clarkson’s parents created the first Paddington Bear toys and the former Top Gear presenter was given the very first bear as a Christmas present when he was 12... his parents added the now famous Wellington boots to stop Paddington from falling over.

It’s twenty years since telly took a Tubby turn aimed at young viewers began even earlier in 1946 when Muffin the Mule appeared on For The Children with Annette Mills. There was only one hour of children’s programmes a week at that time, but it led to the BBC Children’s Department being formed four years later.

Sooty and Harry Corbett made their TV debut on Saturday Special in 1952. Sooty never uttered a word - he would shyly whisper in Mr Corbett’s ear - although his puppet companion Sweep did squeak a bit in reply to questions. Being right-handed did not harm Sooty’s popularity. By 1955, Sooty had his own show and remained a successful part of the BBC’s children’s schedule until 1967 and then the show continued on ITV.

The original creators of Pinky and Perky were Jan and Vlasta Dailbor from Czechoslovakia. They came up with the idea of the singing piglets in 1956 and Jan carved the original puppets out of wood himself.

Pinky and Perky went on to appear on shows like Sunday Night At The London Palladium and The Ed Sullivan Show in America and were starring in their own BBC show by 1957.

Frank Sinatra, The Beatles and Tom Jones all performed with them over the years and the superstar swine also made more Las Vegas appearances in one year than Elvis Presley, Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr combined.

They did incur the wrath of clean-up campaigner Mary Whitehouse though. She is said to have written to the BBC’s Director General claiming they were a subversive influence on young children.

MUMS

LET MUM PUT HER FEET UP WITH A GOOD BOOK
THIS MOTHER’S DAY.

HANNAH STEPHENSON
LEAVES THROUGH HER PICKS OF THE NEWEST FEMALE-PENNED TITLES

DRAMA

by Helen Dunmore
(£18.99, Hutchinson): THIS brilliantly observed saga, set against the backdrop of the French revolution, is narrated by Lizzie Fawkes, a radical but naive young woman in 1792 Bristol, brought up by a feminist writer and political activist father. She separates herself from her radical upbringing when she marries a property developer who tries to subdue her independent spirit, and finds herself torn between his charisma and self-made success and her mother’s idealism. It says a lot about the differences in outlook between generations and genders.

CITY OF FRIENDS
by Joanna Trollope
(Mantle, £18.99): FEMALE friendships, tricky teenagers, fractured families, elderly relatives and workplace issues are all thrown into the mix in the acclaimed author’s 20th novel. It centres on four ambitious friends, who’ve shared joys and heartache since university and are now nearing their 50s and in high-flying careers. But the dynamics change when one is sacked and a series of complications, intertwined through their professional and private lives, follow, threatening the future of the friendships.

THE LESSER BOHEMIANS
by Eimear McBride
(Faber & Faber, £16.99): LONGLISTED for this year’s Baileys Prize, McBride’s second novel (her first, A Girl Is A Half-Formed Thing, won the award in 2014) charts the intense and tumultuous relationship between a naive 18-year-old Irish female drama student and the actor, who’s 20 years her senior and still lives in a bedsit, she meets after arriving in London. Set in the Nineties, she soon discovers a world of bedsits, squats, seedy pubs and sex. As the story progresses, she also learns her new beau’s had a hard life and has a past he cannot deal with.

ROMANCE

MY NOT SO PERFECT LIFE
by Sophie Kinsella
(Bantam, £10.99): THE latest fresh and funny novel from the bestselling female fiction author introduces Katie Brenner, who appears to have the perfect life - a London flat, glamorous job, and super-cool Instagram feed. In reality though, she rents a tiny room with no space for a wardrobe, has a hideous commute to a lowly admin job, and the life she shares on Instagram isn’t really hers. When her female boss sacks her, she has to move to Somerset, where she helps her dad with his new glamping business. And then her ex-boyfriend books a holiday there - and it soon emerges the two women have more in common than first thought.

ABOUT LAST NIGHT...
by Catherine Alliott
(Michael Joseph, £12.99): THIS laugh-out-loud novel charts the calamities of Molly, who is living the dream on a rural farm in Herefordshire except it was her late husband’s dream and it has turned into her nightmare, chasing errant sheep, mending broken fences and trying to keep the bailiffs at bay. Then she inherits a house in London, but there is a catch – it is occupied by a tenant, who she is determined to evict. So the fun begins.

A SECRET GARDEN
by Katie Fforde
(Century, £12.99): THIS light, romantic tale centres on two unlucky-in-love friends Lorna and Philly, who are working together on a ‘secret garden’ in the grounds of a large country house before it opens to the public – and discover that their beautiful workplace could be just the thing to put the spark back into their lives. The author herself has hosted open gardens like the characters in her book, bringing a sense of authenticity to the scene.

COFFEE TABLE

AT HOME AT HIGHCLERE: ENTERTAINING AT THE REAL DOWNTON ABBEY
by the Countess of Carnarvon
(Preface, £30): ANYONE who dreams of a Downton Abbey-style life may wallow in the revelations of this coffee table tome, presented as five historical weekends at Highclere Castle, ranging from the mid-19th century to the present day – Disraeli’s reform cabinet in 1866, a literary weekend with Henry James in 1886, a visit from the Prince of Wales in 1895, a musical Easter with Malcolm Sargent in 1935, plus a life in the weekend of Highclere today. The book also features menus and recipes passed down through the years.

With so many fantastic books on offer, give mum a copy of one and let her while away the day buried in a real page-turner.

THREATS

THE Doll Funeral
by Kate Hamer
(Faber & Faber, £12.99): ANY mums who read this author’s fantastic debut, The Girl In The Red Coat, should be champing at the bit to get their hands on a copy of her second novel, another disturbing page-turner. It centres on Ruby, a teenager who is physically abused by her repressive stepfather but must pretend the bruises on her arms and the black eyes are a result of clumsiness. When she discovers her ‘parents’ are not her blood relatives, she sets out to hunt for her birth parents, unfolding a chilling tale of voodoo doll rituals, secrets, lies and surreal events.

A Dangerous Crossing
by Rachel Rhys
(Doubleday, Mar 23, £12.99): WITH shining endorsements from the likes of Paula Hawkins (The Girl On The Train) and Kate Hamer (The Girl In The Red Coat), it’s worth bagging a copy of this Daphne du Maurier-style debut, set in 1939 when Europe’s on the brink of war. Young Lily Shepherd boards an ocean liner for Australia, leaving behind shadows of her past. But fellow passengers aren’t what they seem, and something terrible is about to happen.

THERE’S also a raft of new mum books - including motherhood memoirs from ex-Towie star Sam Faiers (My Baby & Me: Blink, £14.99) and hit vlogger Giovanna Fletcher (Happy Mum Happy Baby; Coronet, £16.99), and some wise words as mothers smudge on middle-age from Good Morning Britain’s Kate Garraway (The Joy Of Big Knickers; Blink, £16.99).

And then there are stories of mums who have defied all the odds and braved new challenges – like Four Mums In A Boat (H2, £16.99), the story of four middle-aged Yorkshire mothers who faced seasickness, sharks and worse when they rowed 3,000 miles across the Atlantic, from the Canaries to the Caribbean, strengthening their friendships – and their resilience – along the way.

There’s also a pocket paperback from ‘Supermum’ and gold medal-winning runner Jo Pavey, called This Mum Runs (Yellow Jersey, £8.99), which sees her pushing a buggy on her training runs and hitting the track while her children picnic on the grass.

Oats are good for heart health and have been shown to lower cholesterol when included as part of your regular diet.

1. OATS are good for heart health and have been shown to lower cholesterol when included as part of your regular diet.
2. THEY are loaded with vitamins and minerals, including iron, potassium folate, vitamin B1 and magnesium, all of which are also important to heart health.
3. OATS are a great source of dietary fibre, which is not only good for your digestive system, but also your cholesterol level and overall health.
4. THEY are low in calories and fill you up. All that fibre and the complex carbohydrates they contain take longer to digest, which means you stay full longer.
5. OATS can help lower your blood pressure. This is due to all the soluble fibre that wholegrain oats provide.

DOCTOR’S NOTE

WOMEN get more stressed than men over everything from Brexit to terrorism. The Physiological Society asked 2,000 people to rate 18 life events on a stress scale of 0 to 10.

Women scored higher each time, with Scotland the most stressed region and the South East the least.
Family recipes are just too good to keep mum

THE world might just be latching on to an idealised Nordic way of life, but chef Rachel Allen has long been fully immersed in it.

Growing up in Dublin, with an Icelandic mum and Irish father, Rachel embraced both cultures, and she’s not surprised all things Scandi have become so popular.

“If it’s not the great Nordic [TV] drama, it’s the food, or how to be hygge... it’s funny,” says the 44-year-old Cork resident with a laugh.

“I read one of those hygge books recently, and actually I identified with every bit of it. I always feel really at home there,” the mum-of-three notes of Scandinavia. “I’ve always loved the design. I’ve always loved the architecture, the furniture, the fashion, the food.

“I love all the fish and how they use a lot of dill. There’s mild aniseed-y flavours, even licoirie is used in food a lot.

“I love the way they use barley and oats. And baking is something I come back to time and time again.

They use quite a lot of cardamom, and I just absolutely adore it. I often find myself sneaking some cardamom and cinnamon into batters.”

Rachel’s mother Hallírúr – a former art student, who was 19 and visiting Dublin for a weekend when she met Allen’s father – was a creative cook, and fused Nordic with Irish standard.

She’d leave comfortig

Most of us have a soft spot for our mothers’ cooking, and for Rachel Allen, it’s helped inspire her latest cookbook.

The Irish chef talks to Keeley Bolger about her Icelandic heritage and food as nostalgia casseroles bubbling away in the Aga, and whip up cardamom-infused cakes, igniting a young Rachel’s interest in food in the process.

But central as food is to her life, the chef, is dubious about calling herself a ‘foodie’.

“When I was growing up, it wasn’t about people being ‘foodies’, she says. “I was born in the Seventies, it was a different thing then. Mum loved to cook and put food on the table. We didn’t go to farmers’ markets but we always had great food from the butcher down the road, always lovely cassetoles and sometimes we’d get granted then, and of course, growing up, you realise, Wow, she really did a great job.”

Now, Rachel celebrates that great job’ in her latest cookbook, Recipes From My Mother.

It also draws on the beloved dishes her friends’ mums passed down to them, from soda breads, to kedgeree and creamy rice puddings, and acknowledges the influence of her mother-in-law, renowned chef Darina Allen, through their years working together at the famous Ballymaloe Cookery School – which is also where Rachel found her calling and met her now husband Isaac, after enrolling on a course there at 18, and where she still teaches today.

It was a great opportunity to take a stroll down memory lane.

“It’s funny how food evokes such emotions and memories and nostalgia for people,” she says. “Someone would say, ‘I remember we used to always have stewed plums with custard,’ and then I thought, ‘Actually I should be including these lovely recipes as well.’ I feel the book is full of memories.”

Fancy cooking up some lovely memories of your own? Here are three recipes from Rachel’s book to try at home...

■ Recipes From My Mother by Rachel Allen is published by HarperCollins, priced £20.

I KNOW when Mother’s Day is approaching as my daughter almost always sends me a text checking my postcode for a) flowers b) card or c) a parcel. I’ve not had the text yet – I’d better drop some hints! Meanwhile, I’ve some ideas to add sparkle to any mum’s day.

Moët & Chandon Impérial NV (widely available; the best price at the moment is £32.50 in Asda, Waitrose and Tesco, 12% abv). This is a classic champagne which most people will have heard of and has been Moët’s flagship champagne since 1869. It’s a blend in almost equal measures of the classic champagne grapes pinot noir, pinot meunier and chardonnay and has a tantalising nose of crisp apples and citrus, with vanilla and newly baked cake, with good bubbles and a crisp acidity.

Henri Delatère Rosé Champagne (£14.99, Lidl, 12% abv). This is in Lidl’s current Wine Cellar Collection and is a pretty pink for the pretty mum in your life. It’s the colour of strawberry sorbet and has aromas of strawberries and cream, a flash of citrus and a hint of vanilla and shortbread. The bubbles are giddy and flavours of red fruits, raspberries and strawberry are restrained - it’s a shame the flavour’s don’t last a bit longer in the mouth. But otherwise an easy-drinking decent value champers.

Freixenet Cordon Negro (RRP £10, Sainsbury’s, Tesco, Morrisons, Asda, Waitrose, Ocado 11.5% abv). This is another classic fizz which I’m sure you’ll have seen in shops many, many times. The iconic black bottle holds a tasty cava which is made in the same way as champagne. Give cava a chance! That’s what I say. In fact, I might buy some T-shirts. The wine is a blend of Catalan grapes parellada, macabeo and xarel-lo and has a good balance of green fruit aromas, slightly toasty, and on the palate is long and elegant with lemon and pear.

Sharn Fizz Pinot Grigio (£8.75, Oddbins, 12.5% abv). This pretty fizz is from the historic New Zealand area of Gisborne where Captain James Cook first landed in the country in 1769. If mum likes prosecco I’m sure she’ll like this. It has gentle bubbles in the glass (they aren’t excitable but they do the job) which deliver popscilles of pear and apple aromas. The flavour is similar to prosecco with a touch of creaminess which softens the palate.

Koppaberg has brought out two new ciders which look all dressed up and glam in their sparkling bottle outfits. They even have proper corks but I can’t pop one of them so I’m waiting for The Better Half to get home so I can try it. For that reason today I’m sharing words on Koppaberg Sparkling Rosé Cider Raspberry (£5, Asda, 7% abv); its sister cider is strawberry. It seems odd to pop a cork and then drink fruit-flavoured cider but for marketing purposes I guess it gives them a point of difference. It’s a refreshing glass, sprightly, summery and the raspberry isn’t too sweet and overpowering.

I’ll wish all mums a wonderful day. If all you have is memories of your mum (like I do) then raise a glass of something special and smile.

INGREDIENTS
2 red peppers
2 yellow peppers
175ml extra-virgin olive oil
24 cherry tomatoes
4 red onions, each cut into 6 wedges
2 aubergines, cut into slices 5-7mm thick
2 courgettes, cut into slices 5-7mm thick
200g feta cheese
30 black olives
Sea salt and freshly ground black pepper

METHOD
1. Preheat the oven to 200°C/Gas mark 6.
2. Rub the whole peppers all over with one teaspoon of the olive oil, place on a roasting tin and roast in the oven for 45–60 minutes.
3. Halve the cherry tomatoes across the equator and place in a bowl, then add the onion wedges.
4. Pour 75ml of the olive oil into the bowl and toss to coat the vegetables, season with salt and pepper. Push the peppers up to one end of the roasting tin and tip the tomatoes, onions and all the oil in the bowl into the other end of the tray. Place back in the oven to roast. When the tomatoes are juicy and tender and the onions are roasted and golden, tip them out onto a plate and set aside.
5. The peppers at this stage might be tender; if they are, take them out, place in a bowl and cover with cling film.

Pour the juices from the tray over the tomatoes and onions. If the peppers are not yet cooked, pop them back in the oven.
4. Place a griddle pan over a high heat. Meanwhile, place the aubergines and courgettes in a bowl, pour the remaining oil over them and season with salt and pepper.

When the griddle pan is good and hot, place the slices in a single layer (you’ll need to do this in batches) on the pan and cook for two minutes on either side until deep golden in colour. Take out and place with the tomatoes and onions on the plate.

5. When the peppers have cooled enough to handle, peel off the cling film and peel and deseed the peppers. Discard the peel and seeds but keep all the juices. Pour over the other vegetables. Tear the pepper flesh into strips and arrange over the vegetables.
6. Next, make the dressing. Place the oil and vinegar in a bowl.

Put the coriander seeds into a dry frying pan over a medium-high heat and cook for a minute until roasted and slightly darker. Tip out into a mortar and grind with a pestle while still hot and add to the dressing. Taste for seasoning and adjust if needed.

7. Drizzle the dressing over the vegetables, crumble over the feta and scatter with the olives and chopped fresh coriander.

INGREDIENTS
175g butter, cubed, plus a little melted butter for brushing the tin
175g plain flour, plus extra for dusting
50g castor sugar
1/2tsp baking powder
1 egg, separated
50ml milk
1tsp vanilla extract
4 tbsp sieved apricot jam
50g icing sugar
2 tsp of almond essence
25g flaked almonds

METHOD
1. Preheat the oven to 180°C/Gas mark 4.
2. Brush all over the inside of a 20 x 30cm Swiss roll tin with a little melted butter. Or you can line the tin with baking parchment, if you prefer.
3. Place the flour, sugar and baking powder in a bowl and whisk to mix. Rub the butter into the dry ingredients. Place the egg yolk in a small bowl. Add the milk and vanilla extract and whisk to mix. Pour the wet ingredients into the dry ingredients and mix to a dough.
4. Tip the dough out onto a floured work surface, dust with a little flour and roll out to a rectangle to fit the prepared tin. Transfer to the tin and smooth out so that it is evenly spread in the bottom of the tin. Spread the apricot jam evenly over the dough.
5. Place the egg white in a bowl and whisk until frothy. Sift in the icing sugar and add the almond essence, then spread thinly over the jam. It will be quite sloppy. Scatter the flaked almonds over the top.
6. Bake in the oven for 20–25 minutes until golden brown all over.
7. Take out of the oven and allow to cool for a few minutes, then cut into fingers to serve.

175g butter, cubed, plus a little melted butter for brushing the tin
175g plain flour, plus extra for dusting
50g castor sugar
1/2tsp baking powder
1 egg, separated
50ml milk
1tsp vanilla extract
4 tbsp sieved apricot jam
50g icing sugar
2 tsp of almond essence
25g flaked almonds

METHOD
1. Preheat the oven to 180°C/Gas mark 4.
2. Brush all over the inside of a 20 x 30cm Swiss roll tin with a little melted butter. Or you can line the tin with baking parchment, if you prefer.
3. Place the flour, sugar and baking powder in a bowl and whisk to mix. Rub the butter into the dry ingredients. Place the egg yolk in a small bowl. Add the milk and vanilla extract and whisk to mix. Pour the wet ingredients into the dry ingredients and mix to a dough.
4. Tip the dough out onto a floured work surface, dust with a little flour and roll out to a rectangle to fit the prepared tin. Transfer to the tin and smooth out so that it is evenly spread in the bottom of the tin. Spread the apricot jam evenly over the dough.
5. Place the egg white in a bowl and whisk until frothy. Sift in the icing sugar and add the almond essence, then spread thinly over the jam. It will be quite sloppy. Scatter the flaked almonds over the top.
6. Bake in the oven for 20–25 minutes until golden brown all over.
7. Take out of the oven and allow to cool for a few minutes, then cut into fingers to serve.

Learn first aid fast

MANY PARENTS DON’T KNOW HOW TO PERFORM FIRST AID ON A CHILD, BUT A NEW FREE VIDEO SERIES CAN SHOW THEM, writes LISA SALMON

It’s important to keep cleaning products away from children.

JUST ONE MINUTE

PARENTS correctly identified that one minute a day spent learning first aid and minimising risks can cut the chance of children having a serious accident or needing first aid. Soibhan Freagard, founder of ChannelMum.com says: “Giving first aid to a baby or child can be frightening, but not as frightening as not knowing what to do.

“We want to reassure parents they can learn first aid basics quickly, and they could make all the difference if their child, or someone else’s, falls ill.”

QUICK LIFE-SAVING TIPS

- CHOKING: Cut food lengths ways not across. Keep handbags out of reach – children commonly choke on money and pen lids. If your child is choking, never poke inside their mouth as this could push the blockage further down. Burns: Any burn bigger than a child’s palm needs urgent medical attention. Put burns into cold water for at least 10 minutes. Cover in clingfilm to keep sterile before getting help. Remove loose clothing but if clothes stick, leave them on until help arrives. Allergies: Have antihistamines in your home. Be aware allergies can show up during weaning. Swollen lips or tongue? Get to hospital. Fever: Under six months a fever is 38°C. Over six months it’s 39°C. Never treat children with aspirin – check the medicine label.

- CHILD NOT GETTING BETTER AFTER 72 HOURS? Get medical attention fast.

CPR

- ABC – Airways, Breathing, Circulation. Start with five rescue breaths, then 30 compressions/two rescue breaths and repeat until help arrives or the child breathes.

- USE the song Nellie the Elephant as your timing guide. At least 120 compressions a minute.

SEIZURES

- If your child has a seizure, place them gently on the floor and clear space around them. If the seizure lasts more than two minutes, get medical help.

- If your child has a seizure without a temperature, get medical help.

MENINGITIS & SEPSIS

- Don’t wait for the rash – learn the other signs including joint and limb pain, light sensitivity, blotchy pale skin, flu-like illness and cold hands and feet. Babies may have a high-pitched cry.

- Be aware sepsis can happen from any infection, and signs include no wet nappy for 12 hours, vomiting, convulsions, feeling cold, not feeding and hard to wake.

A NEW study shows 21% of mums and dads have been forced to give a child emergency first aid, but only 31% said they felt confident doing it. Instead, 38% were terrified the child could die, 20% were worried they’d be left injured, and 11% panicked and froze completely.

As a result, St John Ambulance and the parenting channel ChannelMum.com have teamed up to produce a new video first aid course that features vital first aid techniques and signs of common illnesses, plus tips from TV GP Dr Dawn Harper, and real-life experiences from mummy vloggers like Charlie O’Brien.

The seven-video series can be viewed at channelmum.com/topic/first-aid.

Isobel Kearl, national training officer at St John Ambulance, says the videos are a great starting point for parent first aid and highlight how easy and quick it is to learn essential lifesaving skills.

And she stresses: “For parents looking to further their first aid knowledge, our basic first aid courses take between just three to six hours and give hands-on experience. Once parents know what to do, they have the confidence to take action quickly and are able to act if needed.”

BIGGEST FEAR

THE ChannelMum study found the most frightening first aid scenario for parents is choking, with 53% saying it was their biggest fear. Almost a quarter of parents have faced the reality of their child choking.

The next most alarming situation is a seizure – with 14% of parents reporting their child has had one – followed by a severe allergic reaction, experienced by one in 20. Meningitis was a very real fear for 6% of parents, and 16% had to treat their child for a burn. In addition, almost one in 10 has given CPR to a child.

The survey of 2,000 adults revealed 84% of parents attempt to childproof their home to reduce the risk of their children choking.

Five a day: 10 portions a day is a lot of fruit and vegetables. Try for a minimum of five portions (a portion is around 80g). One banana would count as one portion, or three spoonfuls of peas, or two tangerines.

Fruit contains a lot of natural sugar, so aim to eat more vegetables than fruit.

PROTEIN PORTIONS: Unless you’re an elite athlete you don’t need to eat a large amount of protein, which includes fish, meat, eggs. As a rough guide, a portion of protein should be the size of your palm.

SORT OUT SALT: Too much salt raises blood pressure, which increases the risks of stroke and heart disease. Aim to only eat 6g a day (2.5g for children, depending on age). Use herbs and spices to give food flavour instead of salt.

TRIM THE FAT: Having too much saturated fat in your diet (found in dairy, red meat and processed foods) clogs your arteries and increases risk of heart disease.

SKIN the sugar: Sugar causes insulin levels to rise, increasing the risk of diabetes and obesity. Read labels carefully as sugar hides under many names, including glucose, fructose, corn syrup, lactose, dextrose, maltose, rice syrup, agave, honey and date syrup amongst others.

Fish is the dish: Eat a minimum of two portions of fish per week, one of which should be oily fish to provide essential Omega-3 fatty acids.

GET the essentials: People on a restricted diet – for example, vegan – may not get enough vitamins and minerals. Talk to your GP about which supplements you should take and which foods you should include in your diet.

AVOID processed foods: Pre-packaged, processed and takeaway food can be very high in hidden salts, fats and sugars.

Include carbs: Starchy carbohydrates, such as rice, are a great source of energy. Choose wholegrain (brown) versions as they keep you fuller for longer and contain more vitamins and minerals.

Your GP or pharmacist can provide dietary information and refer you to a dietician if you are worried about or unsure of what to include in your diet.

Sudoku

Split Decision

Cross out one of the two letters in each divided square to reveal a completed square grid.

Sudoku

There is one simple rule in Sudoku. Each row and each column must contain the numbers 1 to 9, and so must each 3 x 3 box.

Easy

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
8 7 4 2 6 5 1 9 3
9 5 1 8 3 7 2 4 6
2 6 5 7 1 4 3 8 9

8 4 9 7 6 2 5 3 1
3 5 7 2 8 4 1 9 6
5 6 1 4 9 3 8 7 2
6 8 4 5 1 7 3 2 9
7 3 2 6 4 8 9 1 5
2 9 6 3 7 1 4 8 5
9 2 3 8 5 6 7 1 4
4 7 1 9 2 5 6 3 8

Codeword

This puzzle has no clues. Instead, every number printed in the grid represents a letter, with the same number always representing the same letter. For example, if 8 turns out to be a V, you can write in V wherever a square contains 8. Using your knowledge of words, complete the puzzle.

Springing into action

Go floral... be courageous!

So, that's spring sorted. Must do the spring cleaning too, of course, but that's another story...

Florals have never been out of fashion – the beauty of flowers, their connection to nature and their intimation of luxury mean they are always in our design lexicon. Their huge diversity means there are endless ways to use florals and this spring the key look is mad, bad, extravagantly over the top and with a crazy mix of colours. Think Old Dutch Masters all mixed up together and you'll get the picture. This stool and cabinet from Mia Fleur is bang on the money. I'd love to use this cabinet in a hallway. I'd put it every time I passed it. Use with moody wall colours, as here, or pick any of the flower colours – peach, or rose pink, sky blue or fiery tangerine. You're spoilt for choice here. This would also update a French country style bedroom – the shabby chic look has really had its day now, and these strong shapes and colours would take it into a more contemporary direction, but with a hint of 'bespoke', which is also having its moment in the sun.

The other nature trend is butterflies. Each year seems to bag a particular species – we've had stags, hares, flamingos and owls recently, now it's time for the butterflies. They can be happily childlike or severely sophisticated, but they are always beautiful and their symmetry makes for a strong statement. I particularly like a mounted specimen from Mia Fleur (this company is ticking all my boxes this week). As soon as I saw it, I fell for it, but did worry that it is a real specimen.

However, Mia Fleur say “The butterflies are sourced from ethical conservation farms across the world, but mostly in South America and Asia. The butterflies live a happy and full life before being collected, and the farms help stimulate local economies and provide an alternative to deforestation.”

Butterflies are going to be a very easy trend to incorporate into your space – whether on cushions, or plates, wallpaper or accessories. Just don't go overboard with it. The iridescent jewel tones catch the eye and make for a real centrepiece, and work best in small doses. And, as it happens, jewel tones are another of this season’s trends, adding depth and a hint of indulgence. This fabulous footstool and sofa from Darlings of Chelsea in a lush emerald green would be a great investment piece, with its classic Chesterfield style and deep buttoning, as well as on trend. Oversized seat cushions invite you into this sofa, so sit back and put your feet up on the footstool and wait for the staff to bring you the perfectly mixed gin. What do you mean, the staff don’t come with the sofa?? Ah well.

Moroccan style is also re-emerging. A few years ago this trend was done to death, but is being quietly resurrected in small details, especially lighting, and usually in neutrals or metallics, rather than the strong reds, blues and greens often associated with Moroccan style. Take a light fitting from Alexandra and Pearl which has a dull silver finish to it and the intricate cut-out design gives fabulous patterns when lit. I'd place this low over a corner table, possibly between two sofas at right angles, where it would give a soft romantic glow and provide a wonderful focal point. As with butterflies, this trend works best as a side show, rather than the main event. So no tented ceilings pleaseeees!

Although Pantone-clear greens and Dulux-dusky blues are the main headline colours this year, I have noticed that black is creeping back in, and furniture or accessories in this most decisive of colours will not go amiss. This is another easy trend to nail. Scandi-style dining chairs from Persoa are a favourite – a beautifully balanced shape that is a contemporary classic. It also fits into a further trend which is seeing upholstery slim down both actually and visually, like the Natuzzi Regia armchair which provides bags of comfort without hogging all the floor space. Making the most of your space and using it intelligently is a trend that will be increasingly important in a world where new housing is getting smaller. I rather like the side pockets on these armchairs, by the way – no more losing the remote control or your tablet. But while oversized upholstery is out, over-scale accessories, such as pendant lights, are still in, playing with your perception of space.

Finally, the trend towards marble is moving out of the kitchen and bathroom and into sitting and dining rooms. You can play this one safe, with a marble base to a lamp, or a neat coffee table, or you can go for broke and paper an entire wall in a blown up image of a piece of marble.

The trend for marble is still strong as this brown marble wall mural from Wallsauce shows. If you’re going to use it, be bold as it won’t overwhelm the space it’s being used in.

TREND DIPPING

Dip your toe in the water of these trends...

Go floral with this stool and cabinet from Mia Fleur

The Natuzzi Regia armchair provides bags of comfort without hogging all the floor space.

This lush green footstool and sofa from Darlings of Chelsea would really make a statement in your home.

The Moroccan trend can be easily fulfilled with a couple of these lanterns in warm gold. £59.00 each from Orchard Furniture.

Or go for this simple grey and white barrel side table. It is delicately inlaid with a fine bone detail. £345.00 from the French Bedroom Company.

If you’re not convinced about an entire wall of marble, just add a clock. The Menu marble clock from Black By Design has a simple contemporary shape. £219.

A nice place to live long and prosper

It's difficult not to like the original Star Trek series, films and later spin-offs. Featuring sometimes preposterous story lines, shaky sets and acting that verges on the self-mocking, they have proved incredibly popular.

But one well-connected Trekkie – as Star Trek fans are known – in the US has taken his passion for the franchise to another level completely.

Marc Bell, who is a wealthy finance, performing arts and media businessman, several years ago built a mansion in Palm Beach, Florida, to house his collection of Star Trek memorabilia.

Bell is best-known as the US producer of the Jersey Boys musical, which won him a Tony Award in 2006. But his Trekkie tendencies are now only just coming to public attention after his mansion was put on the market recently.

An entire wing of the mansion has been converted into a Trekkie museum including recreated parts of the USS Enterprise, such as the spaceship's bridge, all designed to hold the Star Trek memorabilia that Bell has collected. This includes what appears to be set material including a suit from the Borg alien race featured in the TV series Star Trek: The Next Generation during the late 1990s.

The mansion is within a country club community and has nine bedrooms, 10 bathrooms, a chef's kitchen, wine room, curved marble stairs, swimming pool and spa, full-size basketball court and a waterfall.

It's for sale at $29.95 million via agent Nestler Poletto Sotheby's.

More information from TopTenRealEstateDeals.com.

A PARTY pad once owned by Eurythmics co-founder Dave Stewart where he entertained or worked with his many celebrity friends, is for sale.

The three-storey, three-bedroom penthouse which features two rooftop terraces belonged to the Sweet Dreams Are Made Of This songwriter during the late 1990s and early 2000s.

These included George Harrison, David Bowie, Joe Strummer, Lou Reed, Damon Albarn, Siouxsie O'Connor, Gwen Stefani, Tracy Emin and Robin Williams.

The reason for the starry visitors' book is that Stewart, after Eurythmics split in 1990, went on to be a prolific hit maker for other artists, and many of his celebrity guests at the flat were visiting to record or write songs with him.

What is now the second reception room was used by him as a recording studio.

The flat, which is within Fielding Court on London's Seven Dials in Covent Garden, is just two blocks away from another of Stewart's success stories, a members-only club for the creative industries.

In 2004 Stewart, together with Microsoft billionaire Paul Allen, launched The Hospital Club which offers members access to hotel rooms, TV and music studios, a restaurant and meeting rooms, all for £800 a year.

His former apartment is also only for the wealthy. For sale at £3.85 million through agent Twistock Dove (020 7477 2177) it includes a study views over Seven Dials (where Roald Dahl's Matilda is currently playing at The Cambridge Theatre), a glazed 'crow's nest' rooftop snug and a sauna.

Were sweet dreams made here?

Jim's place until the final whistle

IF YOU'RE a master of football trivia, then you may know the answer to this question. Who holds the record for the second highest number of league appearances for a club?

The answer, which you might know if you're a Portsmouth fan, is Jimmy Dickinson. Between his official league debut in 1946 against Blackburn Rovers to his last match in 1965 for Pompey against Northampton Town, he played 764 games – pipped to the post by only Swindon Town's John Trollope at 770.

After retiring from being a player, he worked for the club including a spell as manager during the late 1970s.

Tragically, he died at home aged just 57 in 1982 following several heart attacks. But his roll call of achievements went much further than his long-serving loyalty.

Jimmy was called to play for the national squad and went on to win 48 caps and he also played in the Pompey teams that won successive league championships in 1948/49 and 1949/50.

Known as Gentleman Jim because he was never spoken to or booked by a referee during his career, he was a left-half.

Dickinson is remembered fondly by fans even today and he was one of football’s last hard grafters, retiring too early to enjoy the high salaries players who followed him earned.

This can be seen from his modest home in Alton, the village where he grew up in the countryside between Basingstoke and Portsmouth. It's a two-up, two-down house with a kitchen and bathroom at the back. The property is for sale through Charters (01420 87666) for £520,000.

A two bedroom end of terrace cottage with small garden, ideally located within walking distance to Epping Underground Station and High Street.

A charming 2 bedroom end of terrace house just off Epping High Street. Lounge area with wooden flooring and open fireplace, downstairs bathroom, fitted carpets to bedrooms and hallway. Traditional kitchen with integrated appliances including fridge, freezer, oven and hob. Small rear garden with pergola. Sony No Pets.

We also have offices in Bishops Stortford, Great Dunmow and Saffron Walden
W ith the subtlety of a sledge hammer the ‘Performance’ tag in the moniker makes it abundantly clear that this is the souped-up version of the popular DS 3 - now shorn of the Citroen prefix as the French car maker seeks to bring added kudos and individuality to its spin-off brand.

The wisdom of that move remains to be seen as a marketing ploy - but the introduction of a sporty derivative rarely does any harm and, following the limited-edition Citroen DS 3 Racing half a decade ago, this is the long overdue full-production hot-hatch version of the popular supermini.

In the boy-racer fraternity at which such models are aimed, having a go kart-like drive is generally regarded as a good thing - and the DS 3 Performance has it in spades.

Riding lower than the standard DS 3 on a much stiffer, sports-tuned suspension and with a wider track, limited slip differential and quick steering, it proves very nimble and agile, turns quickly grips solidly and remains stable and flat in fast corners.

With the same 1.6 litre turbocharged petrol power pack under the bonnet as sister company Peugeot’s 208 GTi it also has pace to burn - rocketing from 0-62mph in just 6.5 seconds and on to a top speed of 143mph.

Those are impressive figures for a sporty supermini and it feels every bit as fast from behind the wheel, with prompt throttle responses and little evidence of turbo lag.

Imposing Brembo brakes help to keep all the power in check when necessary and the aggressive body kit, rear spoiler, twin tailpipes and Performance badging further visually differentiate this pocket rocket from its range relatives.

The standard six-speed manual gearbox has a short throw and snappy action which also adds to the entertaining nature of the drive.

On 18-inch alloys and wafer thin rubber, the pay-off for all that taut control and gripiness, however, is a ride which is firmer than an Anthony Joshua jab and does little to iron out any imperfections in the road surface.

This did occasionally become jarring for my fifty-something bones, given that most UK roads bear more resemblance to a ploughed field these days, but will be of scant consequence to those 30 or so years younger who will mostly be buying this motor.

Nevertheless, you’d be well advised to avoid potholes wherever possible for the sake of yourself and the car’s suspension.

Some protection was, at least, afforded by the body-hugging bucket seats - which are stylishly embroidered with ‘Performance’ branding and, along with some high gloss trim, are the only real interior changes.

That’s not necessarily a bad thing, though, as the DS 3 cabin is neat, tidy and well-constructed but you may wish to avoid potholes.

Travelling in the back is a different proposition, however.

Just getting in is a bit of a scramble and legroom is minimal once you’re there. And while the boot, at 285 litres, will handle a trip to the shops or a couple of weekend bags, personal storage cubbies are in short supply.

Typically, though, practicality is not high on the list of priorities for buyers of hot superminis and few of the DS 3 Performance’s rivals fare any better in that department.

Equipment is in keeping with the premium aspirations of the newly emancipated DS badge.

Standard kit includes automatic aircon, seven-inch touchscreen multimedia interface with digital radio and Bluetooth, automatic lights and wipers, rear parking sensors, electrically folding heated wing mirrors and cruise control as well as all the bespoke design touches.

Sat nav, a reversing camera and an active city braking system will all cost you extra though - either as optional extra’s or in the more expensive Performance Black edition, which also comes with a special black and gold paint job.
Spring into festival mode with our Fiat 500 celebration. Get a free paint upgrade* and 3 years’ complimentary servicing* across the entire range when you order a new Fiat 500 between 16th – 26th March 2017. All you’ll need to worry about is which of the 15 fashion-forward colours to choose from. Drive away colourful.

Footpath 166 Harlow
On 10 March 2017 the Essex County Council confirmed the above order made under section 119 of the Highways Act 1980.

The effect of the order as confirmed is to divert a part of Footpath 166 Harlow commencing from a point approximately 62 metres north westerly of its junction with Footpath 166 Harlow north of The Kennels, London Road (CM17 8LU), proceeding in a southerly direction across Footpath 166 Harlow and continuing between The Kennels building and the footpath to the west of The Kennels and Essex Hunt Cottages towards traversing round the western side of the pond to its southern end, continuing westerly through the trees to then bear southerly with the gravel path to the junction with The Chase as shown on the order map.

A copy of the order and confirmed map may be seen at free charge at Harlow County Library, The Chase, Harlow, Essex CM20 1WG and at Chelmsford Library at a charge.

If any person aggrieved by the order wants to question its validity, or that of any requirement of the order, he may, within 18 months of the date of the order, submit a statement in writing to the Council giving notice of his intention to bring such a question before the court, stating the grounds on which the question of validity is to be brought and the reasons why the question should be brought before the court.

The Order will come into effect on 23rd May 2017 and the old route will be sealed off with pavement adjacent to the diversion route on 25th May 2017.

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council has made the above Order under section 144 of the Highways Act 1984.

Effect of the order: To temporarily close that length of Greenman Road, Magdalen Laver in the Epping Forest District, from point 360m east of its junction with Tinglegale Road for a distance of approximately 125 metres.

The closure is scheduled to commence on 23rd May 2017 for 1 day, or where stated on a valid permit.

The scheduled closure for this period may vary to accommodate works to the following: UK Power Networks (appropriate signs showing appropriate diversion route) and Chelmsford Public Library.

An alternative route is available via Weald Bridge Road, River Mead Roundabout, Canes Lane, Canes Lane, Harlow and vice versa.

The closure will come into effect on 23rd May 2017 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

Hawks hoping for miracle at Angels

Sonko’s late goal keeps slim play-off dream alive

By Andrew Franczak

A NARROW 1-0 win at Burgess Hill Town on Tuesday night thanks to a 90th minute header from skipper Ibrahima Sonko kept Harlow Town’s slim hopes of reaching the Ryman Premier play-offs alive.

However, boss Danny Chapman has conceded the teams around them must suffer an end of season collapse for them to stand any chance of a top five finish – and they must win all their remaining games, starting at Tonbridge Angels this Saturday.

“Tonbridge will be a tough game – they have got a very good home record,” said Chapman. “They are in the play-off places for a reason, they are well drilled and organised.

“But if we have the same mentality and application as we did at Burgess Hill then we will get something from it.

“Claw

“There’s no doubting it’s a big game – we win and it takes us within two points of them, if they win it takes us eight points away from them, which will be a massive ask to claw that back.

“Hopefully we can go there and get something from it.

“We’ll keep giving it everything we can, but if you’re realistic about it then it’s going to take a couple of teams to have a collapse in the run in and for us to win the rest of our games.

“It’s not impossible, but if you look at our season overall and the four teams that came up, if we finish in the top eight it will have been a really good season.”

Chapman praised his players following Tuesday’s victory, which saw Sonko rise above a mass of bodies to head in off a post after a free-kick from Jared Small.

“It wasn’t a great spectacle, but I was pleased with the way the players applied themselves because the game was just one big battle,” said Chapman. “We deserved to win. It was just a case of making sure we were solid, not conceding and making sure that when we did get an opportunity we did score – and Sonko did that.

“We’ve come away with three points away from home – our away form in the first half of the season was poor, and we seemed to have turned that around. On Saturday, Harlow Town and got a result away from home to Leiston.

“The visitors went ahead just before half-time through Matt Blake, but Alex Read levelled in the 71st minute.

“Harlow were hit by a sucker punch in the 91st minute when David Hughes’ strike matched all three points for Leiston.

Chapman added: “It was pleasing [to beat Burgess Hill] especially after Saturday and being so frustrated. We dominated that game and they scored in the 91st minute.

“Football has a funny way of turning things around. We deserved to win – it was one of our better performances of the season and to come away with nothing was disappointing.

HARLOW have signed midfielder Blake, but Alex Read levelled in the second round, which again saw Sonko in the thick of the action.

The 15-year-old, who is a pupil at Harlow School, shone at the Indoor Championships where he was recent Essex County Indoor Multi Events champion, also had a good record, and his lean on, brawling style made him an awkward adversary for the stylish Harlow boxer, who landed some good punches in the opening round.

The referee spoke to both boxers to keep it tidy, and the fight carried on in a similar vein in the second round, which again saw Sonko do enough work.

The final round was an all-action affair and a neat, straight right cross landed by Sonko left the home boxer put him down on his knee.

Whittlesley was swiftly up, casually shook off the knock-down and was ready to box on. However, it had obviously rattled him as he moved around more cautiously until the final bell sounded.

The judges scored a unanimous win to Rogerson, who had worked very hard to get the decision.

At the end of the evening it was announced that Rogerson was voted as the best visiting boxer of the show on a 16 bout programme which included the Essex Elite championships.

“We knew this would be a tough contest, with both boxers wishing to keep hold of their unbeaten records,” said Harlow ABC coach Paul Allen.

“It did get untidy a few times, but Tommy was the boxer and his opponent was the brawler – and in the end he beat his opponent.”

“Tommy is a great prospect who has self discipline.”

He trains hard at the Lady Shot based gym, and does his own roadwork training up to five evenings over the course of the week.

“We do hope to have a champion in the near future.”

Hot prospect Rogerson is king of ring

HARLOW Amateur Boxing Club’s hot prospect Tommy Rogerson came out all guns blazing to protect his unbeaten record in a junior contest at the Marconi Club, Chelmsford.

The 15-year-old, who is a pupil at Harlow School, is looking to do enough work.

“Harlow AC women’s club captain, Beth hopes to have a great outdoor season competing for her club and school in county and national championships.

Beth was also very successful in the recent Essex County Indoor Championships where she won silver in the high jump, and she also picked up a bronze medal in the East of England regional championships.

After being recently awarded Harlow Young Sports Personality of the Year and been voted in as Harlow AC women’s club captain, Beth hopes to have a great outdoor season competing for her club and school in county and national championships.

She has already been selected to compete for GB in the World Catholic School Games which is to be held in Italy in July.

Her sister, Naomi, is currently studying at Carnegie University in Leeds and is playing for the Carnegie Chargers Women’s American Football team.

She has also been shortlisted for the world championships in Canada later this year.

HARYMAN continues fine indoor season

A TEENAGER from Harlow is hoping to follow in the footsteps of GB athletics star Jessica Ennis-Hill after a tremendous indoor season. Sixteen-year-old Beth Harryman, a member of Harlow Athletics Club, has just completed a pupil at St Mark’s School, home at the England Athletics National Indoor Multi Events Championships in Sheffield.

She competed in five events in one day: hurdles, high jump, long jump, shot put and 800m – and registered four personal bests and a new club record.

Her performances have moved her up into the top 20 in her age group in the UK.

Beth was also very successful in the recent Essex County Indoor Championships where she won silver in the high jump, and she also picked up a bronze medal in the East of England regional championships.
